Just Right!

A Sensory Modulation Curriculum for K-5®

Attention: Special Education Director and/or Occupational Therapist

Just Right! A Sensory Modulation Curriculum for K-5 is an evidenced-based curriculum that will teach your students how to self-regulate and increase their self-awareness. The curriculum will align with your Multi-Tiered System of Supports (MTSS) and Response to Intervention program as a Tier 1 or Tier 2 intervention. The easy-to-use, structured lessons will provide support within the classroom setting without the need of an evaluation for 504 Plan or IEP services. Not only did COVID-19 cause great risks for academic regression, but remote learning and increased use of technology resulted in missed opportunities to develop socialization skills, functional communication, fine motor skills, social emotional learning, behavior management, sensory processing, self-regulation, and so much more! The Just Right! Curriculum incorporates all of these skills within the program. The curriculum's evidence found that there was an increase in functional communication and a decrease in negative behaviors once students learned about their own sensory needs. Unfortunately, sensory issues and referrals to occupational therapy are increasing every year. There is a need to address sensory modulation because it is the foundation of social emotional learning. Modern day life, including increased use of technology, less outdoor time for many kids, and the far-reaching impact of COVID-19, is having a negative impact on this area of development.

Just Right! A Sensory Modulation Curriculum for K-5 was developed by Gwen Wild (creator of the BrainWorks Sensory Diet Tool program) and Kim Wiggins (owner of OTKimWiggins LLC). Together, Gwen and Kim have over 45 years of experience with pediatrics and are respected and well-known National Presenters in the field of occupational therapy. They have both presented topics to conferences and school districts as large as 400 attendees, including international webinars.

The curriculum was created with teachers and school professionals in mind! The goal of the program is to address self-regulation as a schoolwide approach to address a variety of issues. Each lesson includes fine motor, gross motor, and communication skills in order to target the needs of students that are at risk for receiving related services. The curriculum includes 16 lesson plans that include:

- Scripts for exactly what to say during every aspect of each lesson
- Video demonstrations of each lesson
- 6 types of modifications for each lesson
- Hard copy and digital handouts, and a specific list of materials and lesson preparation instructions

Please see the attached information sheet regarding pricing and extra resources.

We believe that the Just Right! Curriculum is essential for school success and we hope you do too! We would be happy to schedule a Zoom meeting to discuss more information or purchasing options. Please contact us at KimWigginsOT@gmail.com or 607-624-8674. We look forward to hearing from you!
